Day: 6: Full Day Ho Chi Minh City Tour With Cu Chi Tunnels

- Commence the journey at the colonial-style Post Office and Notre Dame Cathedral. Continue to see the Thien Hau pagoda and a unique area that is not found in any other Vietnamese city: a thriving China Town where everyone speaks Vietnamese and Chinese on all signs and in resident conversation. The great market, also known as "Cho Lon" or The Big Market, is located in the heart of this vibrant neighborhood. Many Chinese residents in this neighborhood have seen considerable success in trade thanks to their knowledge, insight, and dynamism. One of the very few surviving memorials to the Vietnam War is the Cu Chi Tunnels, which may be reached northwest of Saigon after lunch. Cu Chi has 200km of manually excavated tunnels that were used by the Vietnamese guerilla forces as underground living quarters throughout the fighting. Before the Tet Offensive in 1968, the tunnel complex housed about 10,000 soldiers at its height of activity. It continues to be one of the most striking illustrations of just how intense the War was. In the late afternoon, return to Saigon.
